VIDEO GAMES

Hey, everyone! It's my birthday today and my parents bought me the latest role-playing game. It features my favourite video game character. His name's Link and he looks like an elf. In the game, a princess is in danger so Link has to rescue her. Along the way, he fights monsters and collects magic items. Link doesn't talk a lot or have special powers, but I think he's great because he's clever and brave. Tell me about your favourite video game character.

Posted by: Finlay_17, 3/7, 12:12

Happy birthday, Finlay! I like Link, too, but I'm crazy about a character in a platform game. Sonic is a spiky blue hedgehog and he can run really fast! In the game, he has to collect gold rings. There are lots of traps in his way so he has to jump over them. Sonic can spin around to get extra speed, but he never gets dizzy! The thing I like best about him is that he never gives up. Sonic's always ready to try again and run even faster next time.

3e Climate change

Reading

1 Read the definition and look at the diagram. What causes high temperatures?

global warming /gloʊ-bəl 'wɔ:miŋ/ (n) the increase of the average temperature on Earth

2 Look at the photographs in the text. How can global warming affect life on our planet? What can we do?

Listen and read to find out.

3 Read again and mark the sentences T (true), F (false), or DS (doesn't say).

1 Most of the world's mountain glaciers will melt in the next 100 years.

2 It might not be possible to go on holiday to the Maldives in 2100.

3 Ice in Greenland is melting more slowly than five years ago.

4 Polar bears come from Greenland.

5 In a hundred years, polar bears may be extinct.

6 Warmer seas cause more extreme weather.

4 Match the words in bold in the text with their synonyms: changeable, often, getting warmer, be all around sth, die out, in danger, die from hunger, make smaller, catches, disappear.

Check these words

global warming, heat up, fault, fossil fuel, greenhouse gas, surround, blanket, trap, trouble, melt, climate, report, polar ice caps, vanish, low-lying, wave, coastal, under threat, cover, serious, in great danger, starve, drown, extinct, drought, unpredictable, reduce, energy-saving bulb, turn up, expert

Global Warning!

The Earth is heating up and most scientists believe that it's all our fault. When we burn fossil fuels, greenhouse gases such as carbon dioxide increase and surround the earth like a thick blanket. This traps heat and temperatures rise. Scientists say that in the next 100 years, average temperatures will rise by about 3°C. This doesn't sound like a lot, but it means BIG trouble! Ice is already melting, sea levels are rising and the climate is changing. How exactly is all this changing our world, and what will happen if we don't act in time?

Cities under the sea

According to recent climate reports, melting ice from the polar ice caps and mountain glaciers could cause sea levels to rise by about 1 metre by 2100. If this happens, whole countries such as the Maldives will vanish and millions in low-lying areas like parts of Bangladesh will lose their homes. Already, two small Pacific islands have disappeared under the waves. Coastal cities including Shanghai, Bangkok, New York and London will also be under threat. In Greenland, ice is melting three times faster than just a few years ago. If the ice sheets of Greenland and Antarctica ever melt completely, sea levels will rise about 50 m. That's enough to cover almost every major city on Earth!

Wildlife in great danger

Global warming is a serious threat to wildlife. In particular, Arctic polar bears are in great danger. The ice that they hunt from is melting very fast, so they have to swim further and further to find food. Many starve or drown. By 2100, summer ice may disappear completely in the Arctic, and polar bears probably won't survive. Changing weather patterns and rising sea levels threaten thousands of other species too. Some people believe that 30-40% of the world's species could become extinct because of climate change.

Wild wild weather!

Heavy rain and snow, storms, heatwaves, droughts, more powerful hurricanes and tornadoes ... these all happen a lot more frequently these days and more and more climatologists now believe this is because of global warming. When sea temperatures rise, there are changes in the atmosphere. If you live in a chilly place, you might think global warming sounds great. But climate change doesn't just mean hotter temperatures. It means more and more extreme and unpredictable weather!

So ... what on earth can we do?

Reduce your carbon footprint*. Cycle, walk, or take a bus instead of travelling by car, use energy-saving bulbs, and wear more clothes instead of turning up the heat. Experts say we must do something NOW! If sea levels start rising even faster, it will be impossible to stop!

* How much CO₂ we personally produce due to our lifestyles!

3e

5 Complete the summary with words from the check these words box in the correct form. Compare with your partner.

Global warming happens because we burn 1) which produce 2) These will 3) our world by up to 3°C, which means big 4)! Mountain glaciers and the 5) are 6) fast! Parts of the world in 7) areas may 8) completely in 100 years. Many animals are also 9) like the polar bear, which may become 10) Extreme weather such as hurricanes and 11) will also become more frequent.

Speaking & Writing

6 THINK! Why is global warming such a serious problem for our world? In three minutes, write a few sentences. Read your sentences to the class.

7 THINK! If animals could speak, what would they tell us about the problems they face because of global warming? In three minutes write a few sentences. Tell the class.

8 ICT Find more facts about the effects of global warming. Present your facts to the class.

5 Past simple vs Past continuous

A It was coming off the pavement. And then... It was coming off the pavement. And then she tripped and fell.	B John Evans, himself, was having some trouble... John Evans, himself, was having some trouble when he was talking to the police.	C Victoria was not a very happy person... Victoria was not a very happy person when she was living in the country.
D He was having a very bad day... He was having a very bad day when he was talking to the police.	E She was always a very busy person... She was always a very busy person when she was talking to the police.	F It was a very busy day... It was a very busy day when she was talking to the police.

Use

We use the past simple for:

- an action which was completed at a stated or implied time in the past. They thought it was a very nice town. (When? Last week.)
- actions that happened immediately one after the other in the past. She woke up, had the breakfast and got ready for work.
- past habits. In this case we use adverbs of frequency (always, often, usually, etc.). I often went to the gym when I was young.
- people who are no longer alive. (Charles Dickens was never a member of the Royal Society.)

Time words used with the past simple: ago, yesterday, last month/year, in 1998, etc.

We use the past continuous for:

- an action which was in progress at a stated time in the past. We do not know when the action started or finished, or if it was interrupted. They were always going to get married, but they never got married.
- two or more actions which were happening at the same time in the past. She was working when she was talking to the police.
- a past action which was in progress when another action interrupted it. He was walking to school when he fell on the stairs.
- to give the background information in a story. The car was breaking and that was very boring. It was a perfect day for everybody.

Time words used with the past continuous: while, when, as, all day/night/through the night, etc.

11 Look at the pictures (A-F) on p. 42 and underline all the verbs.
 a) Identify in which tense each verb is. Which use of these tenses does each verb show?
 b) How do we form these tenses in the affirmative, interrogative and negative?

Listening Skills 3 and 4

UNDERSTANDING THE FUNCTION: UNDERSTANDING THE SPEAKER'S STANCE

Listening Skill 3: Understanding the Function

Function questions require you to listen to part of a conversation or lecture from the passage again, and then you will be asked to determine the function of or the purpose for a smaller portion that is replayed. This type of question is not asking you for the general topic or main idea of what the speaker said, but rather is asking you why the speaker said something.

The functions of what is said in this type of replay question include the following:

- to apologize
- to ask for or add more information
- to change the subject
- to clarify or make a previous statement clearer
- to complain
- to interrupt
- to make a suggestion or a recommendation

In addition, some of the questions will ask you what was implied when the speaker used a certain expression or answered a question in a specific way. In other words, you will need to understand the speaker's purpose when it is not directly stated.

The following are examples of this type of question:

Listen again to part of the conversation. Then answer the question.

- Why does the speaker say this?
- What does the speaker mean?
- What does the speaker imply when he says this?
- What is the purpose of the speaker's response?

Note that the [4] icon indicates that part of the conversation or lecture will be replayed. You will not see this part of the conversation or lecture on the computer screen.

In order to answer the question correctly, you must listen closely and understand who the speakers are, where they are, and what is happening in the context of the conversation or lecture. You must then figure out the speaker's purpose or reason based on the context.

EXPRESS TIP

It is common for people to say something that sounds like a statement of fact when actually they have another purpose for saying it. For example, a woman says this to her roommate:

Woman: Hey, Susan, I think the people in the next apartment can probably hear your music. It is likely that the woman is not saying this to inform Susan that the neighbors can hear her music. The real purpose is to get Susan to turn down the volume because it is too loud. Therefore, you must learn to listen not just to the words that are spoken, but to what they actually mean in any particular situation. Tone of voice can provide additional clues.

Look at this example of function question on a computer screen.

First, you will see some images and hear a lecture, discussion, or conversation:

TEACHING YOUNG LEARNERS: ACTION SONGS, CHANTS & GAMES!

PRIMARY LEVEL

SUZANNE ANTONAROS –
LILIKA COURI

The potential to generate innovative ideas, solve problems and implement solutions needs education systems that support people in developing the competencies, skills and values to live and work in a globalised, inclusive and interconnected world. While digital technologies can provide people with unparalleled opportunities to interact, learn and create, taking advantage of this potential requires individuals who will have the emotional and social skills to critically engage with the world around them. As language educators, we can actively contribute to this by applying English for 21st Century Skills.

This book showcases cutting-edge theory and practice in the development and integration of 21st century skills in the language classroom. Well-known ELT experts as well as teacher educators, practitioners and leaders from around the world explore how creativity, collaboration, critical thinking, inclusion, wellbeing, leadership and other key new literacies can be developed in both formal and informal learning contexts. The book brings seasoned and novice teachers, trainers, researchers and policy makers up to date with developments in this increasingly important field in language education.

ENGLISH FOR 21ST CENTURY SKILLS

SOPHIA MAVRIDI & DANIEL XERRI

This collection of interactive photocopiable activities can be used with a wide range of students and can be adapted to a variety of classroom and one-to-one teaching situations. Topics include business correspondence, telephoning, presentations, meetings, job applications, cross-cultural awareness, and social English. The activities are designed for different learner types and levels ranging from beginners to advanced and can be used on their own to introduce an area of business English or as supplementary material along with a course book. The digital app offers more practice and further exploits the topics in the course.

COMMUNICATIVE BUSINESS ENGLISH ACTIVITIES

MARJORIE ROSENBERG

Grammar – most language learners hate it, and in fact most language teachers hate it too!

Brain Friendly Grammar enlightens language educators as to why learning grammar has been so dry and unstimulating in the past. Next, it distils neuroscience into a simple spoken coaching conversation that harnesses the ideal conditions for absorbing and retaining information. In this way grammar is discussed and explored with the learner in a quiet brain friendly conversation.

After explaining the theory behind the principles, Rachel outlines the practical applications of this knowledge before giving a detailed break-down of areas to cover, step-by-step, so that neither coach nor learner will ever feel lost with grammar again.

This book is not a traditional grammar book and is probably very different to any other grammar book that you have read. It is really intended for language educators who already have knowledge of grammar or even for polyglots or language specialists who also have a very good grasp of the mechanical side of the language.

If you are new to teaching or coaching grammar, Rachel suggests using this particular book as the skeleton script for the grammar coaching conversations, but then use the traditional grammar books for the in-depth knowledge pertaining to the theory.

By using the versatile Neurolanguage Coaching PACT PQC model, language educators will gain more confidence and be more motivated to deliver grammar, transforming language learning into stimulated, curiosity arousing conversations that may impact learners in an extremely positive way.

SYLLABUS BASED ON THE COMMON EUROPEAN FRAMEWORK OF REFERENCE FOR LANGUAGES

Proficient User C2

Can understand with ease virtually everything heard or read. Can summarise information from different spoken and written sources, reconstructing arguments and accounts in a coherent presentation. Can express him/herself spontaneously, fluently and precisely, differentiating finer shades of meaning even in more complex situations.

C1

Can understand a wide range of demanding, longer texts, and recognise implicit meaning. Can express him/herself fluently and spontaneously without much obvious searching for expressions. Can use language flexibly and effectively for social, academic and professional purposes. Can produce clear, well-structured, detailed text on complex subjects, showing controlled use of organisational patterns, connectors and cohesive devices.

Independent User B2

Can understand the main ideas of complex text on both concrete and abstract topics, including technical discussions in his/her field of specialisation. Can interact with a degree of fluency and spontaneity that makes regular interaction with native speakers quite possible without strain for either party. Can produce clear, detailed text on a wide range of subjects and explain a viewpoint on a topical issue giving the advantages and disadvantages of various options.

B1

Can understand the main points of clear standard input on familiar matters regularly encountered in work, school, leisure, etc. Can deal with most situations likely to arise whilst travelling in an area where the language is spoken. Can produce simple connected text on topics which are familiar or of personal interest. Can describe experiences and events, dreams, hopes and ambitions and briefly give reasons and explanations for opinions and plans.

Basic User A2

Can understand sentences and frequently used expressions related to areas of most immediate relevance (e.g. very basic personal and family information, shopping, local geography, employment). Can communicate in simple and routine tasks requiring a simple and direct exchange of information on familiar and routine matters. Can describe in simple terms aspects of his/her background, immediate environment and matters in areas of immediate need.

A1

Can understand and use familiar everyday expressions and very basic phrases aimed at the satisfaction of needs of a concrete type. Can introduce him/herself and others and can ask and answer questions about personal details such as where he/she lives, people he/she knows and things he/she has. Can interact in a simple way provided the other person talks slowly and clearly and is prepared to help.

Copying:

The law allows a reader to make a single copy of part of a book for the purpose of private study. It does not allow the copying of entire books or the making of multiple copies of extracts. Photocopiable material (e.g. tests) for classroom purposes is clearly marked as such.
